PUBLIC BUILDINGS, CHURCHES, CHAPELS, &c.

THE town of Margate is situate at the north-eastern extremity of Kent, and is one of the healthiest watering-places in the United Kingdom, seventy-two miles from London, and contains, according to the census taken in 1841, 10,399 persons, but subject to a fluctuating population of nearly 40,000, visitors from the Metropolis and other places, who resort to this admired seaport during the summer season.

The Pier.—There are no records to prove when Margate first had a pier. The present pier was commenced in 1810, and finished in 1815, at a cost of about £100,000. It is 903 feet long, 60 feet wide in the broadest part, and 26 feet in height. In 1812, an act was obtained for incorporating a Joint Stock Company, with a capital of £30,000, a sum calculated to complete its erection, and the whole of the rates levied were vested in the Company. The act also authorised the levying of a toll upon all persons embarking or disembarking to or from London or other places, at the rate of not exceeding two shillings for each person; this has lately been reduced to one shilling in summer, and sixpence in winter; as also a further reduction to twopence on persons proceeding in excursion packets to or from any other port than London.

The Droit Office and the Lighthouse are much admired for their ornamental appearance. The Promenade is 856 feet long, and 18 feet wide. The price of admittance for each person to the promenade is, during the season, one shilling per month, or one penny per day.

Jarvis's Landing-place.—This extensive wooden projection was erected at the suggestion of the late Dr. Jarvis, to obviate the difficulty of landing on the rocks at low water, when the steam-vessels could not enter the Pier.

Steam-vessels on this station leave, during the season, generally at 9, 10, and 11 o'clock, with an extra boat at 1 o'clock on Sundays. Particulars can be obtained at the Offices, on the Marine Parade.

The Terminus of the South Eastern Railway, from London to Margate, is situate between the Lower Marine Terrace and Buenos Ayres.

Bathing-rooms—The Bathing-rooms in High street are handsome apartments, on the ground floor, having back communication with the sea, and delightful views of the pier and harbour. The subscription to the Room is 3s. 6d. for the season, which entitles subscribers to read the daily papers and a pianoforte is furnished for their amusement or practice. Persons may be accommodated with sulphur baths, warm baths, shower baths, and baths en douche.

Clifton Baths.—A very novel and peculiar suite of bathing-rooms has been excavated in the solid chalk, rising in a circular form from the bottom, and surmounted with a dome of large dimensions, constructed by and under the superintendence of J. Boys, Esq.

St. John's Church is situate at the southern extremity of the town, about half a mile from the pier, and is dedicated to St. John the Baptist. It was built in 1050, and made parochial in 1290. It has lately been repaired and decorated, by private subscription, under the superintendence of the Rev. W. E. Hoskins, the vicar.

Trinity Church.—The first stone of this elegant structure was laid Sept. 28, 1825, and the building consecrated June 11, 1829. The exterior of the building is decorated with buttresses, pinnacles, and carved finials, both to the nave and sides. The tower rises to the height of 135 feet from the pavement; and, from the commanding site on which the church is built, is seen at a very considerable distance. The Rev. Samuel Prosser, minister.

Chapels.—

Wesleyan Methodists, Hawley square—Rev. Sherwell, minister.
Lady Huntingdon's Chapel—Rev. Caleb Bird, minister.
Baptists, Ebenezer Chapel, New Cross street—Rev. Sprigg, minister.
Congregational Chapel, Cecil street—Rev. F. Beckley, minister.
Calvinist Chapel, Love lane—Rev. R. Woodward, minister
Quaker's Chapel, Drapers—on the carriage road leading to St. Peter's.
Roman Catholic Chapel, Prince's street—Rev. Thos. Costigan, priest.

King's Head, High street—R. C. Osborne.
London, Hawley square—Atkinson.
Elephant, High street—George Sturgess.
Ship, near the pier—Ward.
Hoy, facing the harbour—John Kelsey.
Crown and Anchor, Sion place—Thomas Robertson.
Kent, Lower Marine terrace—Chas. S. Woodruff.
Queen's Arms, Duke street—George Walker.

The Market was built in 1820. It is entered by four Tuscan porticoes, with elliptic arches, closed by iron gates. It is well supplied with meat, poultry, fish, vegetables, and every luxury for the table, at moderate rates.

The Townhall is a plain unornamented structure, forming one side of the market. The room is adorned with well-executed portraits of the deputy, F. W. Cobb, Esq.; the late James Taddy, Esq.; Daniel Jarvis, M.D.; and Francis Cobb, Esq.; and a bust of the late gallant Sir Thomas Staines, K.C.B.

The Gasometer is a neat and elegant building, situate in the Dane. It is built after a Grecian model, and was erected in 1824, at which period Margate was first lighted with gas.

The Royal Sea-bathing Infirmary is situate at Westbrook, a short distance from the town. It is a neat and plain building, of very large dimensions, and is said to have been first projected by the philanthropic Dr. Lettsom. It is under the patronage of her Majesty, and is supported by voluntary contributions. Its object is to extend the advantages of sea-bathing to the poor and necessitous, under the pressure of such diseases as sea-bathing and sea-air are calculated to remove or relieve. There is sufficient accommodation for 210 in-door patients.

Academies.—

Mr. Cuthill's, St. John's College, Prospect place.

Mr. Dunbar's, Dane hill house, near the Windmills.

Mr. Lewis's, Churchfield house, Angel place

Mr. Mickleburgh's, Thanet house, on the footpath leading from Margate to St. Peter's.

Mr. Spooner's, Bellevue house, in the Dane.

Mr. Stanley's, Bath house, Sion place.

Miss Hollingsworth's, Union crescent.

Preparatory Schools.—

Miss West's, Churchfield place.

Miss Worthington's, Hawley street.

Miss Hart's, Cecil square.

The Literary and Scientific Institution is in Hawley square, and was established in the year 1839. Lectures are delivered once a fortnight, during the winter season, on Tuesday evenings, commencing at eight o'clock. A good Reading-room is always open for the accommodation of subscribers, as also a library of reference and circulation. A Museum is attached to the establishment, affording a rational source of instruction and amusement.

The Theatre is situate on a gradual slope, leading to the church, at the north-east end of Hawley square. It is a neat but unadorned brick building, after the model of old Covent garden. Its interior is fitted up in a chaste and pleasing style, and the present proprietor spares neither expense nor labour to render its amusements attractive and instructive. This structure was erected, in 1787, at a cost of £4,000.

The Grotto is situate in the Dane. It is very curiously put out in the chalk, and is prettily and tastefully covered with shells.

The French Bazaar is situate at 26 High street, and is elegantly fitted up, brilliantly lighted with gas, beautifully ornamented, and well stocked with china, shawls, muslin, perfumery, jewellery, porcelain, combs, &c, of the most costly description, both English and foreign.

Boulevard de Paris.—This unique room you enter by a splendid arch from the High street, affording a delightful and convenient thoroughfare to visitors from the High street to the west corner of Cecil square. This Bazaar is filled with an extensive assortment of British and foreign articles. Here, as in the foregoing establishment, the cry of "Only one wanted" is relieved by music and singing.

Cobb's Brewhouse—This brewhouse is very large, and fitted up with every convenience for carrying on the manufacture of our truly national beverage. It is 179 feet long, 43 feet broad, and 75 high from the pavement. This building, which was designed by Mr. W. Teanby, stands on a considerable eminence, and may, therefore, be seen from most parts of the Island, of which it commands an uninterrupted view.

Libraries.—Mr. VAUGHAN'S, at the bottom of High street, called the Marine Library, is a handsome and convenient building ; consisting of a shop and circular saloon, and contains an excellent collection of books.

Mr. BRASIER'S, 20 High street, opposite the passage leading from the terrace,

Mr. KEBLE'S, High street,

Mr. DENNE'S, Queen street, and
